Every year since 2012, InSEA, an official partner of UNESCO (United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organisation) takes part in their International Arts Education Week. This takes place again in 2020 between the 25th and the 31st May.

We have seen in this global pandemic how the Arts can bring people together and we hope that this year's call out will do that too. Our theme is Be Radical (here we pay homage to the theme for the proposed InSEA European Congress in Spain and its theme of Being Radical). It is an open brief – no rules – no restrictions on art work, because you will be sending us a photographic image/video of it. All details are on our poster – including where to send/post and what hashtags to use. Let's bring art education together again as we all make a piece of our own art for a reason. To express our own response to the theme.

Please share. Please make your own artwork. Support InSEA and UNESCO.

Thank you so much. Obrigado, Danke, Merci, Gracias, Koszono
