Adapting AccessArt: Making Birds Pathway for Pupils With Special Educational Needs

By Ellie Daly

In the 'Adapting AccessArt' series, we will be spotlighting teachers who have used AccessArt resources to develop their own pathways.

In this resource, Ellie Daly, Higher level teaching assistant and Arts Award Lead at Brooklands Community Special school, shares with us her adaptation of the Making Birds pathway. Ellie recounts her love of nature and photography, and explains how this project was developed to suit a current set of students studying for the arts award.

Read on to find out how Ellie facilitated an exploration of drawing, collage, photography and sculpture.

Please note that this page contains links to external websites and has videos from external websites embedded. At the time of creating,

AccessArt checked all links to ensure content is appropriate for teachers to access. However external websites and videos are updated and that is beyond our control.

Please let us know if you find a 404 link, or if you feel content is no longer appropriate.

We strongly recommend as part of good teaching practice that teachers watch all videos and visit all websites before sharing with a class. On occasion there may be elements of a video you would prefer not to show to your class and it is the teacher's responsibility to ensure content is appropriate. Many thanks.

Paddington Bear

Paddington Bear is a fictional character in children's literature. He first appeared on 13 October 1958 in the children's book A Bear Called Paddington and has been featured in more than twenty books written by British author Michael Bond, and illustrated by Peggy Fortnum and other artists.

Paddington is also animated in stop motion. Paddington himself is a puppet in a three-dimensional environment, whilst other characters are paper cut-outs. The final television special used a slightly different technique using 2D drawn fully animated characters. Wikipedia

Watch the episode below and ask children some questions about what they can see.

What We Like About This Resource...

"It's really nice to see that although Rachel Parker works quite digitally, her process from the beginning is very tactile. Rachels books act as a really great source of inspiration, helping to break down the creative blocks that we all get from time to time. Having a sketchbook dedicated to colour means that as well as working with colours that you already love, you can test new colour palettes and see colours from a new perspective. I especially love how Rachel picks up on the different tones in colours by looking at the way light hits it in order build her colour palette around those supporting tones as well as big statement colours." — Tobi, AccessArt
