nichola dalton

Nichola Dalton has been a teacher in Glenwood Primary School, Belfast since 1997. Currently she is Art Coordinator and facilitator to Glenwood Primary Art Room. She is originally from a background in Fashion and Textile Design. Her degree specialism was Constructed Textile Design, and she considers this to be a strong influence in the ceramic work she produces today. Nichola's interest in texture, pattern, colour, and structure continues in clay. Nichola lives beside Lough Neagh in Northern Ireland, which is an area of wild, untouched beauty. She is fascinated by the simultaneous wildness and calm, conflicting textures, and the repetition of nature. The colour and light here provide a rich, natural palette. Nichola hand builds simple strong forms using stoneware clay. Each of Nicola's ceramic pieces is entirely unique.
