

Sharing Skills & Ideas

<< Back to Visual Arts Pedagogy<<

Central to AccessArt's philosophy is the importance of sharing skills & ideas between different settings and audiences.

By looking at best practice in settings other than our own we can challenge our preconceptions, widen our understanding, and deepen our offering to our own audiences.

This collection of resources shares how we can continue sharing between settings.

Explore Resources

connecting Approaches

In this inspirational session we invited teachers of ages 7 to 11, and teachers of ages 11 to 16, to come together so that we can share AccessArt approaches for each age range.

Creative Pedagogy & Pathways

How we can inspire each other, find common ground and develop stronger connections?

Sharing Ideas Between Settings

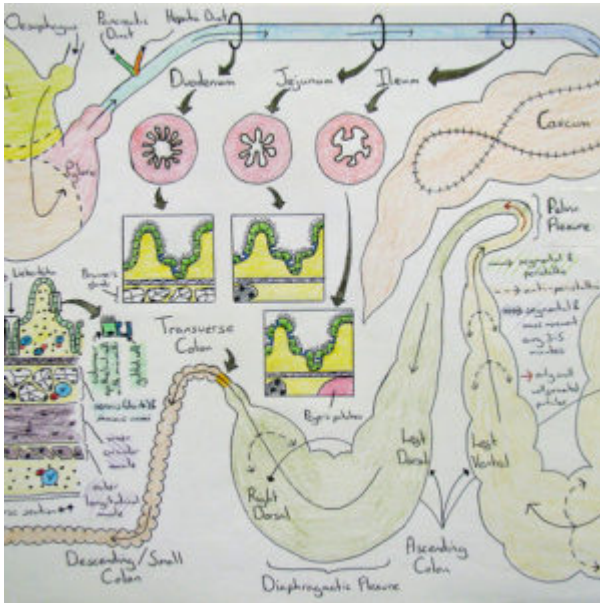

How do we learn from teachers before and after us in the education pipeline? And what approaches can we learn from creative practitioners?

Teachers' Own Creativity

How can we enable teachers to experience and develop their own creativity?

Drawing as a way of understanding

Fay Penrose from the Veterinary School at University of Liverpool, shares how they use drawing as a way of checking understanding of complex subjects.

snakes & ladders

Passing on, and passing back: Better connecting the pipeline