

The Making of: “Being Creative Helps You Tackle Challenges in All Areas of Life”

By Paula Briggs

This animation clip was made as part of the #BeACreativeProducer project.

See this clip in its final context in Part 2 Scene 2 Why Is Being Creative Important.

This resource shares the making and animating of a character we named "Bob", who helps demonstrate that being creative can help us tackle challenges in all areas of our life. This method of animation combined making skills in the physical world, with green screen animation. The making of Bob himself took a little time, consisting of a wire frame covered by fabric, but the animation itself was fairly simple.
